

Acknowledgments

The years leading to the completion of this thesis were very special for me. I was lucky to be allowed to do research in Colombia for the Hugo de Vries Laboratory. I was granted much freedom to follow my own interests and make my own mistakes. All this while counting on the backup of my (co) promotores Jan, Antoine and Henry, who at times had more confidence in my ability to complete this project than I myself could muster. I thank them, and all other friends and colleagues at the Faculty of Biology (now FNWI) of the University of Amsterdam for our shared experiences. But there are many more persons to thank for all the lessons learned, fun had, anguish suffered, help received and mountains climbed. The complete list of people is likely to include you if you are holding this book. Thank you.

The following persons, institutes and places deserve especial mentioning. In no particular order: Santa Rosa de Cabal, en especial Filiberto y Rubi Moreno y familia; El Departamento de Biology de la Universidad de Antioquia, en especial Ricardo Callejas y Wilson Renjifo; Cenicafe en Chinchiná, en especial Juan Carlos Ortiz; Finca Los Micos en especial Jairo Ruiz; Los Jeep Willys del '53, en especial Gerardo Arrellano; The Department of Plant Botany at the University of Århus, especially Pamela Hall and Christian Lange. Santafé de Bogotá, en especial Carmen Páez; Cali, en especial Erik y Esperanza Veneklaas; Termales de Santa Rosa, en especial Aida Arbelaez; In Sitio, especially Robert Verloop; Deka, especially Karan Kanhai; Fundación Tropenbos Colombia, en especial Carlos Rodriguez y Alejandro Jaramillo; Aracuará, en especial Maria Victoria Arbelaez; Instituto de Ciencias Naturales de la Universidad Nacional, en especial Julio Betancur y Edgar Linares; Empocabal de Santa Rosa, en especial Carlos Alberto Patiño; Medellín, en especial Emilio y Libia Arbelaez y familia.

It was a pleasant experience to work with Juliane Hanke, Veronica Mora, Maaïke Bader and Maria Paula Balcazar during this project. I have learned much from them.

I thank my father, mother, brother and sister for their love and support. Michailja, meeting you on my return to the Netherlands was a gift from heaven. Thank you for your sunny humor, patience and love.

A mis amigos Colombianos les deseo el Colombia próspero y en paz que tanto merecen.
